JOLTING THE IDEALISTS.

Entire absence of adverse comment at Washington already makes it clear that Ambassador George Harvey in his speech at the Pilgrims dinner in London was fairly representing the attitude of President Harding as to the league of nations and international questions generally. Had the speech not been approved by Mr. Harding and Secretary Hughes it can be depended on that it would have been officially repudiated a few hours after its publication. Its declaration that we did not go into the war to found a league of nations but simply to save America is the first time anybody speaking directly from the White House has contradicted the policy but not, characteristically, phrases in which President Wilson was wont to misrepresent the 1917 motives both of himself and of the country. The contradiction is wholesome though belated.

Along with Secretary Hughes' note to the governments of Poland, the Harvey speech is a stinging rebuke to the political partisans among our own people who in lifted and incurious devotion to Mr. Wilson's vagaries have been pretending that one or two of the recent steps of President Harding indicated an intention on the latter's part to adopt the Wilson policies, including membership in the league of nations, in substance if not in name. Both the speech and the note serve emphatic notice to the contrary. The note distinctly states that no matter whether Germany or Poland is right, the United States can have no concern in the matter. There could hardly have been a more pointed contradiction than this to the Democratic apologists who construed Ambassador Harvey's commission to attend the meetings of the allied supreme council as a covert maneuver by Mr. Harding to accept and join the league of nations by indirection.

Smoking into that leading organization by the back door instead of going in by the front door, as Wilson proposed to do, this is what the league realists have been trying to make it appear the Harding administration was intent on doing if they can get any financial reinforcement for this view out of the Hughes note they are welcome to it and are to be congratulated on their powers of imagination. President Harding was elected on an explicit pledge to maintain the traditional American policy to avoid foreign entanglements as against the Wilson policy of actually embroiling such entanglements. He is now giving the country an assurance as plain as plain English that the pledge has not been forgotten.

NOT IMPORTANT.

Women who have an aversion to submerging their maiden names in those of their husbands felt a bit perked up because of a decision in New York a few days ago. Ruth Hale became the wife of Heywood Brown. In the execution of a deed which required the signatures of both there were appended the names "Heywood Brown and Ruth Hale, his wife," and this was accepted for record. This is hailed as a great victory for the Lucy Stone league. However, it may be of much less importance than is credited to it.

Women who have such strong personalities that they object to sinking their identities in the names of their husbands may not have husbands. Such who do mate certainly are not numerous. In the instance cited the fact that Ruth Hale was described as the wife of Heywood Brown robs the victory of some of its importance. Does it not put the wife in a subordinate position in that she is identified as a "wife"? It would but have evened matters to have mentioned that Heywood Brown is the husband of Ruth Hale.

For the wife to take the name of the husband is not an indication of chattelship or the submergence of identity. The married woman is not a person different from what she was before marriage. She has the same opportunity to make her influence felt under one name as another. Then there are the children. If the father goes under one name and the mother under another, what is the name of the offspring?

While the question may appear important to a few women, we believe that with the mass it is trivial. No considerable number cares a fig about it.

SHIPPING EXCHANGE.

While the business world regards hopefully the slow but apparently course by those who believe that violent actions demand radical treatment. He is meeting the fate of one who tells an unpleasant truth. The league has not caused the Georgia executive to hesitate. Even since he began his crusade a negro woman was drowned at the hands of a mob instead of libeling his state. Governor Dorsey is endeavoring to raise it to a level where it will be respected because it deserves respect. To conceal a festering sore augments the trouble. Penance and mob rule have no proper place in a free country. Governor Dorsey recognizes whether the course will lead and he is trying to save his state. There is no higher form of patriotism than earning a commonwealth from a fatal error. Governor Dorsey may not be a politician, but he gives evidence of being a patriot.

CHINA TO HAVE AIR MAIL ROUTE THIS SUMMER

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, May 28.—The Peking-Shanghai air mail service in all likelihood will be an established reality before summer is well advanced. Contracts for the building of two large hangars at the Shanghai terminals were let following the purchase of the land. Incidentally these contracts were let to an American company.

It was planned to start work on these hangars in April and they are to be completed within four months. Two similar hangars are being built at Peking and negotiations for the erection of hangars at Tsinanfu, Shanghai and Pancheng are being carried forward.

When a reporter asked J. Ogden Armour whether he considered the retail price of meat too high, Mr. Armour told the reporter to use his own judgment, and if the reporter did he probably went and bought a codfish.

ANNOUNCEMENT

CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM AND REFINING COMPANY

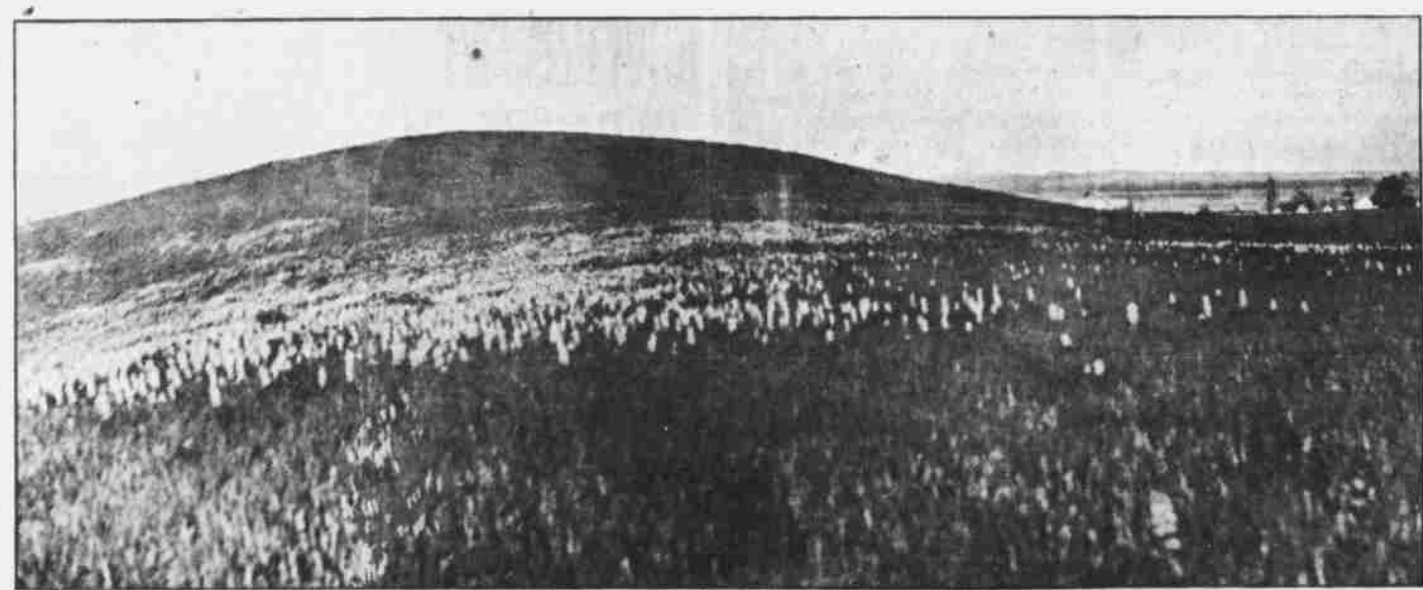

OF COLUSA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

THE OIL INDUSTRY, this company owns a perpetual lease upon 720 acres, right in the heart of the new oil district in Colusa County California and is now prepared to take subscriptions for treasury stock. The directors of this company a short time ago, authorized the sale of 100,000 shares of the Treasury stock at 25c per share, but since that time the company has practically made arrangements with the California Corporation Commission to sell its stock in that state, and when those arrangements have been completed the company will open an office either in San Francisco or Los Angeles and the price of the stock will be raised to 50c per share.

STATEMENT OF MR. T. J. MEDDOCK
THE CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM AND REFINING COMPANY
Gentlemen:

I take pleasure in sending you a brief statement upon your oil holdings of Colusa Co. California.

First of all, you are centrally located in what is almost certain to be in the near future one of the great oil producing districts of California. Next in line is that most wonderful structure commonly called a "dome" or sign post for geologists. Undoubtedly this dome was forced up by great pressure, for it seemingly has no connection whatever with a glacier slide, considering the distance it lies from the nearest mountains, which is a low range, and practically only foothills.

TO THE PUBLIC

After studying the outlines of this wonderful structure in the picture herewith presented and considering its significance in the oil world you should not fail to grasp the opportunity now available, visit our office now open, and see samples of oil produced in that district. The highest grade lubricating oil yet discovered, and brings the highest price paid for a crude product, also specimens of the formation, an oil shale with all sorts of fossils and shells cemented together. Although the district is quite new there are many drills now at work and many more will be working soon.

The quality of the oil produced in that section is almost without an equal, and according to a cross section map made by the Tuscan Oil Company which is operating in that district, which I have examined thoroughly, and no doubt that company has proven to be correct, by the drillings of their well. I find that the formation and all surface indications are most excellent. After a further and more thorough examination which I will make very soon I will forward to you a full detailed report, and the possibility of your property.

Respectfully
(Signed) T. J. MEDDOCK,
Licensed and Authorized Engineer of the State of California.
